Council Room Refurbishments

The Council Room will be closed for refurbishment from 17 June until mid September. There will inevitably be some noise and disruption while this work is carried out but the Library will remain open. The Arthur Holmes room will be used as a temporary office during this time so will not be available for meetings.

Library & Info Services

Online papers – Interdisciplinary research in catchments

Environmental Earth Sciences vol.69 no.2 is the second topical issue of this journal to have a focus on international hydrological research. Most of the material has been provided by the Water Earth System Science Competence Cluster (WESS). It is a follow-up to an earlier issue dealing with Integrated Water Resources Management. Athens passwords needed for offsite access.

Online papers – Permian-Triassic paleoceanographic and global climate system

Global and Planetary Change vol.105 contains papers on marine environmental conditions during the Permian-Triassic boundary (PTB) crisis and its aftermath. These explore changes in paleoceanographic conditions during and following the end-Permian crisis, their significance for the mass extinction event and the subsequent delay in recovery of marine ecosystems, and their relationship to global climate change. Athens passwords needed for offsite access.

Online papers – Ensemble Kalman filter for data assimilation

 In Computers & Geosciences vol.55, the term 'ensemble Kalman filter' is used to denote the general category of ensemble-based methods that share many essential properties. It contains nine papers covering a wide variety of methods including the original ensemble Kalman filter, the ensemble smoother, ensemble square-root filters and particle filters. Athens passwords needed for offsite access.

IRDR 3rd Annual Conference

Date: 14 June

Venue: Gustave Tuck Lecture Theatre, UCL

After successful annual conferences in 2011 and 2012, we are hoping for our 2013 annual conference to be even bigger and better. As in previous years, this conference aims to draw together a varied and dynamic audience from across UCL and beyond to report on, explore and inform research in risk and disaster reduction through thought-provoking lectures and discussions.

Call for Abstracts: International Association of Sedimentologists (IAS)

Date: 2-5 September 2013

Abstract Deadline: 3 June 2013

Venue: Manchester University Conference Centre

The 30th IAS meeting of Sedimentology is an exciting occasion as it is 23 years since an IAS meeting was last held in the United Kingdom.

A wide array of topical sessions, field trips, short courses, and social activities are planned. Our three exciting plenary speakers, Chris Paola (University of Minnesota), Sanjeev Gupta (Imperial College London) and Bruce Fouke (University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign), will boldly take the participants into the new frontiers of sedimentological research, from the micro to planetary scale. Re-energise and refresh while sampling the best of British beers and ciders at the Icebreaker, and join us at the home of Manchester United Football Club for the conference dinner.
